Secretary Warneford

Secretary Warneford states that the posting of the Secretary's remarks would be embarrassing to her and would mean additional work for her office. She notes that any这样的话 might need to be altered to be easier to read, as her secretary would have to correct any errors. She asks for any additional comments or suggestions for improvement.

The proposal to further enhance the confidentiality of the Secretary's remarks is discussed. It is suggested that the Secretary's name could be revealed only after the passage of time, possibly by a process involving the Secretary's signature or a password.

Secretary Warneford believes that the proposed changes would be beneficial to the Secretary's office and would enhance its efficiency.

Any further comments or suggestions are welcome. The Secretary remains available to discuss any issues or concerns that may arise.

In conclusion, Secretary Warneford expresses her gratitude for the time and effort put into preparing the document and looks forward to further discussions on the topic.

Department of the Secretary (Mr. Secretary)
We strongly urge enactment of legislation which will permit redemption of all outstanding scrip. We hope that the Congress will set a specific standard for value per acre or a dollar figure and we will be glad to provide such technical assistance as the Congress may desire in arriving at such a value.

The scrip laws were enacted a century ago. The public land is no longer vacant and unappropriated, but subject to a variety of uses, commercial and non-commercial, and it behooves us to wind up the outstanding scrip promptly so that this kind of pressure to disrupt or change such uses will be finally ended.
