SPECIAL COMMUNITY SERVICE WITHIN DU LAW SCHOOL:

Chair of Admissions Committee for many years, first appointed by Dean Hoffman.

Chair of the University Affirmative Action Committee for several years.

Created and ran Summer Program for admitted students who had lower LSATs, GPAs, or had been out of school for a significant amount of time – to give them a head start getting adjusted to law school

Created and ran a Tutorial program for the first-year courses, available to all students during the school year

Created and ran a parallel Tutorial program for students of color, who were frequently afraid to ask questions during the main tutorial sessions. This program was funded by using excess RA money from Professors John Carver, Thompson Marsh, and myself – until the program was terminated by Dean Dauer.

TRIBAL WILLS PROJECT – Founder and Director

This is the largest such experiential learning/pro bono service project at any law school in the United States. So far, students have worked on reservations in five different states, (Arizona, Colorado, Montana, New Mexico and Utah), and will be adding South Dakota in May 2018. Students are supervised by volunteer attorneys from Colorado and from each state where we work.

Co-Founder, Government Attorneys Project 2014.

Worked with Colorado Supreme Court, Metro Volunteer Lawyers, and government attorneys to establish a new Government Attorneys Pro Bono wills program for Colorado. I give free training sessions for the government attorneys, for which they receive CLE credit. I also provide assistance, as needed, to any government attorney who is working with a particular client. The goal of the project is to allow government attorneys to do pro bono service – without any conflict with their government jobs, and to provide estate planning services to low income clients in emergency situations, in which the client would not be able to wait for assistance through the Wills Lab, which generally has a long Waiting List of clients.

Wrote essay questions used on the California bar exam for many years, in Property, Wills, and Trusts.

Served with the NCBE committee writing Property questions for the multi-state for two years

SPECIAL PROGRAMS CREATED FOR STUDENTS & COMMUNITY SERVICE

Director, Tribal Wills Project, University of Denver Sturm College of Law, Denver, CO. 2013 to present. To date the Tribal Wills Project (TWP) has done wills, medical powers of attorney, living wills and burial instructions for tribal members on Indian reservations in five different states, (Arizona, Colorado, Utah, New Mexico and Montana), all at the invitation of the various tribes involved. We will go to South Dakota in May 2018, any have already been invited to Wyoming for May 2019. I am in charge of coordinating all aspects of the TWP, including intensive training, selection of students, Supervising Attorneys, locally licensed attorneys, housing and transportation for everyone, coordinating all planning with leaders of the tribes involved, and raising approximately $40,000 per year in private donations to be sure that no student is excluded because of finances. I receive no teaching credit or pay for running the Tribal Wills Project. No student receives academic credit for participation in the project. Students give up one week of vacation time, (Winter Break, Spring Break, or beginning of Summer Break) to participate in TWP.

Director, Wills Lab, University of Denver Sturm College of Law, Denver, CO. 1985 to present. The Wills Lab provides wills, medical powers of attorney, living wills, and burial instructions for low income clients in the metro area documents
