Law School Helpdesk

Visit the law school helpdesk to get assistance with your laptop computer. The helpdesk staff can assist with: email, wireless access, installing student printers and antivirus software.

Information about Supplementary Online Course Materials

You may find supplementary course materials online in one of two places: TWEN (The West Education Network <http://lawschool.westlaw.com>) and Blackboard* (<http://blackboard.du.edu>). Your professors will let you know which system (if any) they will use with your class.

Professors can use course management software to post course materials online and provide access to online communication tools such as email and asynchronous, threaded discussion boards. Each platform offers features that may or may not be activated by your professor. Not all professors post course materials online.

You will use your Westlaw® password to access course materials posted in TWEN.*

You will use your Banner ID and Passcode to access Blackboard.*

Faculty Web Pages

Check the online faculty directory (<http://law.du.edu/directory/>) and click on the Faculty Profile page to see if your professor has a link to either Blackboard or TWEN.

Westlaw® and Lexis-Nexis®

First year law students have access to Westlaw (<http://lawschool.westlaw.com>) and Lexis-Nexis (<http://lawschool.lexis.com>), Computer Assisted Legal Research systems. You can find both legal and non-legal materials with these online services. Your Lexis-Nexis passwords will be distributed at Orientation. Your Westlaw passwords will be emailed to you. You must register your passwords before using them. Westlaw and Lexis-Nexis training will be provided through the library and Lawyering Process class during the first few weeks of school.

Advance Assignments

Check the Registrar's page here (<http://law.du.edu/index/registrar/course-information/advance-assignments>) to check for any advance assignments for your classes.
