EDUCATION

Columbia College ■ New York, NY

B.A., 1979

Urban Studies and History (double major)

Dean's List; William Curtis Prize (Public Speaking)

Vanderbilt University School of Law ■ Nashville, TN

J.D., 1982

Articles Editor, Vanderbilt Law Review (1981 -1982)

Symposium Editor, Vanderbilt Law Review (April issue, 1982)

TEACHING EXPERIENCE

At the University of Denver, Sturm College of Law, Denver, CO:

LP Professor ■ 2003 – 2015; Director, 2008 – 2013; Professor of Practice, 2015-

Lawyering Process ■ I teach first-year students the introduction to legal method and expression course, which includes legal analysis, research and writing, and oral argument. I use my own hybrid textbook: Skills & Values – Lawyering Process: Legal Writing and Advocacy (2nd Edition, Carolina Academic Press, 2017), and do all lectures and grading.

Discovery Practicum ■ I teach one section of upper-level students a 3-credit course focused on the discovery period in civil litigation. In the context of a pending litigation, students prepare 12 different written discovery documents, conduct a deposition, and ultimately settle the case. I developed the course and conduct all lectures and grading. I use my own hybrid textbook for the course: Skills & Values: Discovery Practice (3rd Edition, Carolina Academic Press, 2017).

Administrative Law ■ I have taught this upper-level required course in the law of the administrative state. I selected the text and developed the syllabus. I incorporated advanced classroom technology in this class, including using a student response system (“clickers”) and group research projects using Wiki software.

Adjunct Professor ■ 1991 - 1997

Lawyering Process ■ In addition to teaching this course as an Adjunct, I assisted the director, Prof. John Reese, in implementing changes to the program. In the last two years, I gave several of the lectures that brought all of the first-year students together.

Adjunct Professor ■ 1992 - 1994

Litigation Practicum ■ This upper-level course addressed the discovery process in a practice-focused setting. I developed the syllabus and did all lectures and grading.

At the Benjamin N. Cardozo School of Law, New York, NY:

Adjunct Professor ■ 1984 – 1985

Legal Research and Writing ■ I taught 32 students the full year legal research and writing course, including all syllabus and lecture development, and all grading.

At the Phillips Academy, Andover Summer Session, Andover, MA:

Instructor ■ Summer, 1980, 1985

Jurisprudence ■ In 1985, I taught an intensive 6-week course in legal history and philosophy. I developed the syllabus, selected the texts, and gave two-hour lectures six days per week and all grading.

Computer Programming ■ In 1980, I taught a 6-week course in computer programming in Basic Plus on the DEC PDP 11/70 mainframe computer using teletypes as the interface.

COMMITTEE SERVICE

I served on the Law School's Appointments Committee from 2007 – 2011. I served on the University's Dean Search Committee in 2009 – 10. I have served on two Curriculum Committees and Chaired the Skills Implementation Committee in 2009 – 2010. In the Academic Years 2012-2014, I served on the law school's Assessment Committee, the Modern Learning Committee, and the Library Director Search Committee. Since its founding in 2008, I served on the University's Distance Learning Council, which sets policy and reviews for approval plans for online education programs at the University. Since 2009, I served on various committees that support the work of the Educating Tomorrow's Lawyers Project at IAALS. In the Academic Years 2013-15, I served on the University of Denver's Strategic Issues Panel on the Future of Higher Education, as well as the Steering Committee for the University's Strategic Plan. I was chair of the Experiential Advantage Committee in 2013-2015 and was interim chair of the Modern Learning Committee in fall 2015. I have continued to serve on the Modern Learning Committee every year since 2015. I was appointed the John C. Dwan Professor for Online Learning in 2015. During the summer of 2020, I served on two University Committees set up to craft the University's response to COVID-19.
