Denver Law will offer a range of competitive stipends to support unpaid work with nonprofits and governmental agencies during Summer 2019. Denver Law appreciates your willingness to contribute the public good and we want to do our best to support your efforts. We also advertise and, provide support for, national summer funding programs.

For all stipends listed below, DU and national, you are eligible to receive credit simultaneously, provided your supervisor is approved. Please also note that there are different deadlines for each stipend below and generally, judicial externships are not eligible.

Summer Funding for Public Interest Work for Only DU students

- PILG & Denver Law Summer Stipends (Amount TBD): The student group PILG raises money each year to provide funding to students who are working in a legal placement with a nonprofit or government agency. Denver Law also provides supplemental funding for these awards. The number of awards and amount of each award is yet to be determined. Applications are due by April 22, 2019. Complete an online application, https://tinyurl.com/2019dustipend, and submit a resume and verification from your placement to afreeman@law.du.edu.

- Public Policy: Squire Patton Boggs Foundation Fellowship ($2500): If you will be engaging in public policy work for either a nonprofit or government agency, consider applying for this fellowship. You cannot engage in litigation, trial work, or client representation to receive an award. Two awards will be given. Applications are submitted through Symplicity, position # 12650 and March 29, 2019.

- Cheever Environmental Nonprofit Stipend ($4,000): In honor of the late Prof. Fred Cheever, one award will be provided to a student working with a nonprofit focused on environmental law. Interested students should apply through the PILG & Denver Law Summer Stipend process described above: Applications are due by April 22, 2019. Complete an online application, https://tinyurl.com/2019dustipend, and submit a resume and verification from your placement to afreeman@law.du.edu.

- David Mullins and Charlie Craig Civil Rights Stipend ($2,000): Named for the plaintiffs in the Masterpiece Cakeshop case, David Mullins and Charlie Craig, this stipend is made available through the 2019 DU Civil Rights Summit. Two awards will be given to students working in an unpaid civil rights firm. Civil rights firms are public interest law firms that are distinguished from other private firms in that their primary mission is to assist underrepresented people or causes, rather than primarily profit focused. They typically handle cases addressing plaintiff side employment law, immigrant justice, police misconduct, First Amendment, and other civil rights and anti-discrimination issues. Complete an online application, https://tinyurl.com/2019mullinscraigstipend, and submit a resume and verification from your placement to afreeman@law.du.edu. Applications are due by April 22, 2019.

- Chancellor’s Global Innovation Fellowship ($5,000): CGIF provides up to 5 DU students (undergrad or grad) from any discipline with a stipend to support a global organization that is actively pursuing one or more of the Sustainable Development Goals or Grand Challenges (Engineering, Social Work, or DU). Apply here: https://projectxite.typeform.com/to/QpYbco. Applications are due by April 19, 2019.

- Hill and Robbins Fellowship with Colorado Legal Services ($5000): If you are interested in nonprofit work and have some availability this spring as well as this summer, consider applying to this fellowship. The chosen applicant will work 100 hours in the Spring Semester, and then full time for 10 weeks in the summer. There is an option to continue in the fall. One award will be given to a CU or DU student. Interested students should submit a cover letter and resume, along with one to three written recommendations concerning the applicant’s research and writing skills and suitability for the position, to Matthew Montgomery (matthewmontgomery@hillandrobbins.com). The deadline is February 22, 2019. For more detailed information, search for job number 18565 in Symplicity.
Sattler Civil Rights Fellowship with the Colorado Lawyers Committee ($4,000) The Fellowship offers a unique opportunity to work with a variety of lawyers on high impact, pro bono matters and to gain insight into all aspects of the pro bono legal community in Colorado, primarily in Denver. One award will be given to a CU or DU student. Send a cover letter, resume, and two references to Kathleen McCrohan, Associate Director, Colorado Lawyers Committee, by email at kmccrohan@coloradolawyerscommittee.org. The deadline is February 22, 2019. For more detailed information, search for job number 18564 in Symplicity.

Ved Nanda Center Summer Stipends: ($500-$1500 generally): The Ved Nanda Center at Denver Law often provides funds for stipends to students working or externing in the area of human rights. This program has not yet been finalized yet for summer 2018, but we imagine information will come out soon. Visit http://www.law.du.edu/ved-nanda-center-for-international-law/student-stipends-and-fellowships and/or email aaguirre@law.du.edu for more information in the coming months.

Summer Funding for Public Interest Work, open to all law students:

Peggy Browning Summer Fellowship ($6,000): This program provides stipends to approximately 70 law students who dedicate their summers to advancing the cause of workers’ rights by working for specific labor unions, worker centers, labor-related not-for-profit organizations, union-side law firms and other nonprofits. It is a ten-week summer fellowship available to 1st and 2nd year law students intended to encourage them to consider labor law as a viable career choice. The deadline is January 18, 2019.

Rural Summer Legal Corps – Paid Nonprofit Work ($5,000): This program is designed to place 30 law students at civil aid organizations across the country to provide direct services in underserved rural communities. Students work for 8 to 10 weeks, complete 300 hours, and then receive a cash stipend of $5000. As there is only one Colorado-based placement, if you are looking to work outside of the state in nonprofits, this is a great program. Apply and learn more at https://rurallegalcorps.org/. The deadline is February 11, 2019.

Crime Victims Justice Corps - Paid Nonprofit Work (stipend amounts vary): The Crime Victims Justice Corps (CVJC) mobilizes more than 30 law students across the country to deliver civil legal assistance and enforce the rights of crime victims. Law students help provide civil legal services to address issues arising from crime victimization, including family law, education, and employment, as well as providing outreach and training to community partners. Law students are required to serve for 8-10 weeks and earn a stipend upon successful completion of service. Deadlines vary, depending on the organization; visit https://www.equaljusticeworks.org/law-students/part-time-summer/crime-victims-justice-corps/.

Equal Justice Works AmeriCorps Veterans Legal Corps (VLC) – Paid Nonprofit work ($1,200 education award): The VLC provides legal services that enable low-income and homeless veterans and their families to stabilize, recover, and rebuild their lives. Law students, referred to as “Student Members” are hosted at legal services organizations. Students earn a $1,200 Segal AmeriCorps Education Award upon successful completion of 300 hours of service. No deadline for summer 2019 established yet. Visit https://www.equaljusticeworks.org/law-students/part-time-summer/vlc/ for up to date information.

For a broader list of summer stipends that are open to non-Denver Law students visit the PSJD summer funding page, https://www.psjd.org/summer-funding, which advertises stipends for work in a range of geographic areas and/or substantive issues. Deadlines vary and the list is updated periodically.
