

Application for Directed Experiential Project

Directed Experiential Projects allow students in their second, third, or fourth years to work with a full-time faculty member on a real or simulated client matter. Adjunct faculty may not supervise a Directed Experiential Project. Students may register for one to three credit hours of Directed Experiential Project work per semester; students must petition to the Assistant Dean of Student Affairs for permission to register for four or five credit hours. Students may not exceed a total of 5 directed experiential credits during law school. All work on a Directed Experiential Project must be supervised by the faculty member, and the faculty member must ensure that the work is experiential and that the project provides a robust learning opportunity.

The student must complete the project no later than the last day of the final examination period for the semester in which the Directed Experiential credits are registered. If the professor and student elect to continue the project beyond that semester, the student must petition and receive approval from the Assistant Dean of Student Affairs.

This form must be signed by the student, the supervising faculty member, and the Associate Dean of Academic Affairs.
